

An architect's rendering shows how homes in Rockford Grove will fit well in an exclusive neighborhood in Wilmington near the Delaware Art Museum.

Executive homes sell well in Wilmington neighborhood

TIMARK, LLC and Dewson Construction Company held the first Open House at the new development of Rockford Grove, an eight home enclave of custom executive homes on Kentmere Parkway in the city of Wilmington.

Styled after the historic 19th century homes of the surrounding Rockford Park neighborhood, these homes offer all the modern amenities of a new home in an authentic reproduction that appears to be from the original city plans dating back to the 1800s.

The event was well attended and included Mayor James Baker, several city council members and many of the area's well-known real estate agents. This open house allowed the attendees to see first hand how modern building practices can be integrated into an existing neighborhood and how it accurately replicates what may have been built there one-hundred years ago. Of the original eight home sites, four remain for purchase.

Dewson Construction Company operates in Delaware and surrounding Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland counties.

The company also develops properties and has won construction awards from the Home Builders Association of Delaware and Delaware Contractors Association. Dewson Construction Company is celebrating 15 years in business in 2008.